Bring the library to your classroom

Librarians can visit your classroom to

- Teach your students how to use the library on-line - perfect for I-search projects, reports and science experiments.
- Perform booktalks - quick chats about fantastic books that intrigue, entertain and inspire your class.
- Tell stories - support character development programs, encourage imagination and critical thinking skills, enhance social studies curriculum, serve as a springboard for creative writing.

Plan a field trip to the library for any of the above services. Your students can have a tour of the library, do their own research, see our extensive collections, and check out books too.

What else can the library do for you?

- Take a look at our ready-made booklists for Science Fiction, Fantasy, Mystery, Adventure, Multicultural stories, Humor, Historical Fiction, Easy Nonfiction, Stories for the Social Studies Curriculum and more!
